

Part 5: Developing a Logical Argument

In developing a logical argument through the course of your essay, your logic must move from the general to the specific.

You should begin with a wide scope and narrow your argument down as it progresses from step to step within each paragraph.

For an example of how to do this through each paragraph, see the section on the Introduction and Body paragraphs.