Heritage College hosts training for Mini-Clinic Contract Nurses working in Foreign Affairs and International Trade Canada (FAITC) Missions Abroad

From February 19 to March 2, Heritage College's Continuing Education and Nursing departments will be collaborating to offer a ten-day intensive Nursing training program to a group of 26 mini-clinic contract nurses working overseas for Foreign Affairs and International Trade Canada (FAITC). The aim of this customized Nursing training program is to upgrade their theoretical knowledge and technical skills.

The Heritage Continuing Education and Nursing departments have joined forces in this unique venture to deliver the professional nursing trainers and resources required for this specialized and tailored program. The College community is pleased and proud that they have been awarded this contract. It will be a wonderful opportunity for them to help these dedicated nurses from all over the world and to share their experiences.

Foreign Affairs and International Trade Canada (FAITC) hires mini-clinic contract nurses to work part-time in 30 missions located in many regions throughout the world, including Latin America, Africa, the Middle East, Asia and Eastern Europe.

This joint project is a prime example of the innovations taking place at Heritage College! For more information about Continuing Education or Nursing at Heritage, visit us on the Internet at www.cegep-heritage.qc.ca.
