The Heritage College Drama Club presents Two One-Act Plays

Now in its sixth year of production, the Heritage College Drama Club is proud to present two one-act plays from February 15 to 18 inclusive, beginning at 7:00 p.m. each evening in the College auditorium. The first production is a comedy, by Canadian playwright Daniel MacIvor, which is guaranteed to keep the audience laughing. This is a Play is an absurd tale which dives into the minds of the actors on stage as they perform their roles in an equally absurd play about lettuce. The second play is a drama by William Saroyan entitled Hello Out There, a love story which explores the desperate encounter of an alleged criminal and a defeated prison maid in a small town jail.

The players involved in this year's productions are Kodi Cannon, Caitlin Emond, Katie Gunn, Caitlin Manicom, Lindsay McRae, Jordan O'Byrne, Aaron Peer and Emmanuel Labonté. The two productions are being directed by Jennifer Scrivens, who has been active on the Ottawa theatre scene for many years, both as a director and as an actor. Both plays are being produced by Katie Gunn.

Please join us for an evening of laughter and tears. Reservations and information are available by calling 778-2270, ext. 2051, or tickets can be purchased at the door. Admission is $10 for adults, $5 for students and seniors.
